A Special
Message From
Our Governor---

RONALD REAGAN
GOVERNOR

State of California
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO 95814

Friends

I am pleased to extend greetings and good wishes to the participants, officials and spectators of the 82nd Annual United States Track and Field Championships.

The traditions of teamwork, competition and fair play which track and field sports exhibit are the same traditions which develop athletes of the caliber of Olympics champions. Those who are competing in this meet became proficient through much training, study and self-discipline, and I commend you for your dedication to the sport.

My best wishes for success to each participant, and for a memorable and enjoyable meet.

Sincerely,

Ronald Reagan
RONALD REAGAN
Governor

A Sunny

Bakersfield Welcome

to the Amateur Athletic Union Official participants and spectators. The U.S.A. Track and Field Championships held for the fifth time in 14 years in Bakersfield is convincing evidence of our continued sports interest, the desirability of our facilities and the hospitality for which we have long been noted. Stay as long as you can—we're so pleased to have you.

DONALD M. HART
Mayor, City of Bakersfield

Welcome to Sunny Bakersfield . . .

We know your stay in our modern city will be most pleasurable. We hope that you will remember our friendliness and hospitality, our year-round climate comfort. We welcome your return for an extended visit or better yet as a . . . new resident.

We Are Pleased You Are Here . . .

. . . We welcome you heartily and sincerely to the 82nd Annual Track and Field Championships of the A.A.U. The entire membership of the Greater Bakersfield Chamber of Commerce joins me in expressing our feeling of pride and appreciation for the opportunity to promote amateur athletics by hosting this exciting competition.

The fact that our community has been chosen for the fifth time in recent years to sponsor this event of world-wide significance is a tribute to the diligence and dedication of those among us who realize the value of such events in building a better America and a better world.

To you, the athletes, officials and fans, we extend our hands in warmest hospitality. We wish you well and hope you may return again.

The Fascination of Man vs. Times

Man against man long has held a fascination for everyone. Man against man, and both against the elements, has held such a deep fascination that it easily may explain the tremendous popularity of Western movies and TV shows.

It also explains the intensity of the track fan who rivets his attention on man against man, and both against the element of time — and, in the case of field events, the elements of height and distance as well.

The fascination with time never ends. The Bulova Watch Company's natural interest in time accounts for the presence of the Bulova Accutron Phototimer at major track meets in the nation, including this National AAU championship, and other major meets like the NCAA championship, the Drake Relays and the IC4A championships. It also played an important role in the Olympic trials of 1960 and 1964, and the Canadian Olympic trials of 1968.

That odd-looking green box perched high in the stands (the Bulova Accutron Phototimer camera) has been the court of last resort in deciding some very unusual races.

Whoever would dream of a six-mile race ending in a photo-finish, with two runners clocked in the same time by officials using hand-operated Sports Timers? It happened, in the 1965 AAU championships, but the Phototimer proved that Bill Mills beat Gerry Lindgren by the margin of 5/100ths of a second.

Again in the three-mile run of the NCAA championships of 1965, Doug Brown, of Montana, and John Lawson, of Kansas, ran so close a race that fans demonstrated for their favorites in an effort to influence the judges' decision. The hand timers caught both men in the same time of 13 minutes 40.2 seconds, but the Phototimer showed Brown the winner by a fraction.

An even closer "Believe-it-or-not" was the very first meet at which the earliest version of a Bulova Phototimer performed — the National AAU cross-country championships of 1948. Bob Black and Curtis Stone finished 1/100th of a second apart, with the Phototimer picture making it possible for the judges to declare Black the winner.

Unlike the hand-operated Sports Timers that Bulova, through jewelers all over the nation, supplies to hundreds of events, the Bulova Phototimer system is an electronics device that photographs both the runner and his time.

A comparison of these two timing systems inevitably raises the question: When does a race actually start?

Harry B. Henshel, Bulova president and timing adviser to the National AAU, has studied the subject for years. He says the answer depends on whose point of view you take — that of the runner, the individual timing official at the finish line or the Bulova Accutron Phototimer, which is at both the start and the finish line.

"For the runner," says Mr. Henshel, "the race starts when the sound of the gun reaches his ears and he reacts by beginning to run. For the official at the finish line, as much as 100 yards from the start in outdoor track, the race begins when he reacts to the flash from the starter's gun by starting his timer.

"For the Phototimer, the race starts with the flash of the gun that instantaneously triggers an electronic control attached to the barrel of the starter's gun."

Mr. Henshel emphasizes that, since the Phototimer reacts instantaneously, while the human timer reacts a fraction more slowly, the Bulova time usually is a bit slower than that shown by the hand timers.

If it were possible, Mr. Henshel believes that a foot race, like a horse race, should start at a specific electronic point beyond the starting line. This would be the true beginning of a race.

Happy Landings

It's always a happy landing on a Port-a-Pit. A safe, soft landing builds jumpers' confidence and improves techniques. Every recent world's record to date was set on a Port-a-Pit.

Athletic directors are happy with Port-a-Pit's extra margin of safety, lowest cost per landing, economy, tough durability, versatility and convenience. The first choice of leading colleges.

Port-a-Pit's superior landing surface meets international standards. Don't settle for less than the best.
