Outlook – Mahomet-Seymour has been the top ranked 2A team all season. They will look to go wire to wire at Saturday's state final. They are undefeated this season against 2A schools. Alex Keeble will be one of the top runners in this race vying for the individual state championship. Andrew Walmer also has a good chance of finishing in the top 15. Gabe Pommier and Brian Butcher could also finish in the top 30. The Bulldogs will need to have a split under 45 seconds on their top five with Keeble in the top five. The Bulldogs have had a gap between their fourth and fifth runners at points this year. They could be Outlook – The Rams have maintained a #2 spot in the rankings all season. They will contend for the state championship against Mahomet-Seymour on Saturday. The two teams are very similar up front. Jack Aho will be one of the individuals vying for the state championship. He will be in the top 5 mix. Matt Aho is in his first year of cross country but could still finish in the top 15 in this meet. Jack Battaglia could be one of the keys for the Rams. He is running strong at the end of the year moving into the #3 spot. He needs to be at least 30 seconds behind Jack Aho with a chance to be in the top 25. Just like Mahomet-Seymour, Central will need to keep their five runner split between 45 to 50 seconds to win the state championship.

Outlook – While most of the eyes watching the 2A Boys race will be focused on Grayslake Central and Mahomet-Seymour, they may lose track of Yorkville going after their third straight 2A championship. The Foxes do not have the power up front like they've had recently. What they do have is a strong pack that could sneak in and win the state title. Senior Trevor Wills has been the #1 runner for the team all year. He is the key for the team and how the pack starts. It will be a good sign if he finishes 20th or better. It would be great if he is in the top 15. The split on their top five has been amazing. Last week in winning at Wheaton Academy, the split was only 13 seconds. At the Naperville Twilight Meet, that split was at 10 seconds. A split of 20 seconds or closer with Wills in an all-state position could clinch the state championship for this team.

Outlook – The Hornets have the power up front. It could be their overall split that could prevent them to getting into the top three. Roman Drabchuk and Charlie Nodus have been dominant for their team all year up front. They could finish in the top 10 in this race. Brett Haffner has been a big help for the team as their #3 runner. He needs to be within 40 seconds of either Nodus or Drabchuk (their #1 runner) at Detweiler. The split off of their #1 runner this year has been anywhere from 100 to 115 seconds. They need to have all 5 runners under 15:50 to possibly contend for a trophy. They will get the low numbers up front. A split under 90 seconds could be big.

Outlook – Jack Franklin has emerged as one of the top runners in central Illinois. He could prove himself by finishing in the top five in this meet. Franklin has been one of the reasons why the Pioneers have taken off ever since the end of September. They are a young squad with freshmen and sophomores throughout their top five. The split has grown on five ever since Franklin has been more adventurous up front. Last week at their sectional race, the five runner split was 94 seconds. The Pioneers need a top 3 split of 35 seconds and an overall 5 man split of 73 seconds to contend for a state trophy.

Outlook – The emergence of #2 runner Eli Walker is one of the reasons why the Blue Thunder is back at Detweiller Park as a team after a two year absence. Walker could contend for an all-state finish with a good race on Saturday. The success of this team starts with #1 runner Eryk Yunk who should be among the top ten in this race. The team split was 95 seconds last week. Walker needs to stay within 30 seconds of Yunk. If their split on five can duck under 75 seconds, this team could surprise some contending for a trophy.

Outlook – After winning their sectional championship last week at Decatur, the Senators have their eyes on a top five finish this weekend. Heath Warren has translated his track successes to the cross country course. He should be among the top ten on Saturday. Logan Besalke leads a pack that needs to stay within 30 to 35 seconds of each other. If Besalke can stay within 25 seconds of Warren, this team has a chance of finishing in the top five.

Outlook – The re-emergence of #1 runner Jake Gillum back into the lineup at the end of September boosted the hopes of the Redbirds. They are back at state looking to build off of their fourth place sectional finish at Normal. Ryan Meyer is part of a three man pack that will need to stay within 35 seconds of Gillum in this race. Good things could happen for this team if Gillum finishes in the top 15 along with the team having an overall 70 second split on their top five.

Outlook – The Titans could be a dark horse in challenging for a top five team finish. The talent is there to accomplish that. Landon Skelly is having a great senior season that could result in a top 15 finish on Saturday. Chris Durr needs to stay within 20 seconds of Skelly in this race. That kind of performance could also put him into the top 30. The pack with freshmen brothers Drey and Dathan Maton along with Michael Rogers need to be within 40 seconds of Skelly with an overall split of 50 seconds to get this team close to the top five teams.

Outlook – The Irish will contend for a top seven finish with the leadership of Victor Fortin and Patrick Bruch. The key for this team is keeping the two within 10 seconds of each other. Both could be in the top 25. Their split has averaged near 70 seconds this year. A split under 63 seconds could get this team up in the standings.

Outlook – The Tigers just made it to the state meet surviving the tough Woodstock North Sectional in finishing fifth. Part of their success came from their power up front led by Weston Sterchi and Cole Barkocy. The two have the potential to be in the top 25 in this race. Barkocy was 27 seconds behind Sterchi at last week's sectional race. He should be much closer in Peoria. The 5 man split at 85 seconds last week was their best of the year. It will come down to getting the split on five down ten seconds along with getting their top two closer together. If that happens, this team could finish in the top ten.

Outlook – The move down to 2A paid off for the Friars this year as they made it to the state meet. Don't make anything out of the fact that they qualified out of the "weakest" of the five 2A sectional meets. The quality on this squad would have been able to qualify out of any other sectional. The pack up front is the key for the Friars. Alex Marks and Jack Darrow have run within ten seconds of each other all season. Add in sophomore Emmet McEney into the pack and you could have three runners in the top 40. Their 47 second split at the sectional meet is a little deceiving considering the competition. Expect it to be close to 60 seconds at state. The team has the talent to possibly get into the top ten.

Outlook – The Knights are on the rise and peaking at just the right time. Kaneland ran a 78 second split on five to get third at Woodstock. Part of that success has to do with #1 runner Matt Richtman who could be in the top 25 in Peoria. Austin Kintz has the potential to run with his teammate. The last three meets he has averaged 30 seconds behind Richtman. Watch for him to be 15 seconds or under in this race. If the pack moves closer with Kintz, then Kaneland could move into the top ten.

Outlook – The move to 2A just before the season for the Royal Lions has given this team some motivation this season. The team responded in a big way qualifying for Peoria with a fourth place finish at Rockford Christian. Nick Monkemeyer has been the #1 runner for the team all season. The pack has been closer to him during the year. Part of that has to do with developing a strong pack. Monkemeyer ran 15:02 in September at Detweiller. Watch for him to be unleashed in this race with possibilities of him finishing in the top 15. The pack behind him is strong. The split from two through five was 33 seconds last week. It could be lower than that this weekend.

Outlook – Lindblom qualified for the state meet in school history after finishing fourth at Wheaton Academy. Walmer Saavedra has been in front in all of the races he has competed in this season. Watch for him in the top 15 on Saturday. The team has a tight pack behind him. Their split of 24 seconds from their second through fifth runners is strong. If that pack can move ten seconds closer to Saavedra, this squad could finish among the top 15 teams.

Outlook – The Trojans have a strong front three as evidenced by their third place finish at Decatur last week. Their overall split could prevent them from getting into the top fifteen. Colton Bell leads the trio up front. Usually they are within 10 seconds of each other. It was 26 seconds of each other on Saturday. It could help if that pack tightens up in this meet. Their split was 92 seconds last week. That will need to be cut down in order for a higher finish.

Sophomore Mitchell Kremer has been the top man for his team most of the year. Last week it was Charles Osley that was up front only five seconds ahead. Mattoon could move into the top 15 if Kremer is in the top 60 with a pack of 55 seconds behind him.

Outlook – It did not look good at the beginning of the year that the Warriors would make it to state especially with how many runners from last year’s team had graduated. Deerfield came on strong at the end of the year to make it back to Peoria with a second place finish at Chicago University Sophomore Matt Gold has stepped up as the #1 runner for this team. Their split of 35 seconds on five is good. It could be effective if they can keep their split the same with Gold in the top 60.

Outlook – The second Chicago Public school to qualify for state in 2A Boys. Robel Yemane leads a pack of three up front that was within 17 seconds of each other last week. Yemane ran 15:26 at Detweiller earlier in the year. He could be in the top 40 in this race. Mather's 5 man split has gone down to 103 seconds. If that can move to under 90 seconds, this team could finish in the top 20.

Outlook – The Lions ran a tight 32 second split on five to punch their ticket to Peoria. Jacob Bonanotte and Sam Brey have been the top runners for this team most of the year. Their split is good but will be effective if they could put their top two runners between 90th and 100th.

Overview of team and individual races

Mahomet-Seymour and Grayslake Central have been the top two teams in 2A this year and will face off for the first time on Saturday. The two teams are very similar with good top runners and packs behind them. It could be a man on man competition to see which team comes out on top. Yorkville could have a big say in who wins. The two time defending 2A champions do not have the fire power up front but do have a tight pack that could cause problems and give the their third straight championship.

Hinsdale South could also challenge for a trophy especially with the 1-2 punch of Charlie Nodus and Roman Drabchuk. Their gap in their pack could be a problem for them preventing them in getting into the top three.

The individual race is wide open. Jack Aho appears to have the slight edge but will have company up front. Jack Franklin has been hot the past two weeks defeating Alex Keeble in both the regional and sectional races. Ben Flowers (Jersey HS) defeated Heath Warren (Springfield HS) by one second at the Decatur MacArthur Sectional. Shane Williamson (Vernon Hills HS) is the top returnee from last year's state meet. Expect him to challenge up front along with Luke Beattie (Woodstock HS) and Filip Pajak (Prairie Ridge HS, Crystal Lake). Hinsdale South duo Roman Drabchuk and Charlie Nodus will also be near the front along with Walmer Saavedra.
