

HARRY HAYWOOD JR.

HARRY HAYWOOD, Jr., of the New York Athletic Club, is considered to be one of the best middle distance runners in the East.

Before running the shorter distances Haywood used to run cross country. It is to this early training that he attributes his condition to-day. In 1906 Haywood ran on the New York Athletic Club National Junior championship cross country team.

Haywood is one of the star runners of the Twenty-third Regiment of Brooklyn, being a member of all their relay teams.
